Mysterious cute girl Mabigon (age 21) has had the most-subscribed channel on YouTube (a video-sharing website).

Suddenly she started to speak fluent Japanese with a pretty face. Also she sang Aming's song "Matsuwa." At this time, her fans around the world continue to increase, because of her lovely gestures. But we heard rumors she did not really exist, that somehow she is a computer-generated image, or an Americanized Japanese living in Japan. No one received information from Mabigon herself.

That was the situation. And yet we Weekly Playboy were looking for her. We came to visit the town she lived in and met Magibon at last! We hurried there by freeway in a four-hour car ride from New York. She was in a town surrounded by nearby mountains, with snowflakes flitting in the air. She guided us around town and into her room, where we got valuable pictures.

"Thank you for coming. I'm glad to be presented with souvenirs of Ichigo-Pocky. This is a small town of 3000 residents. You are the first real Japanese people I have met...no Japanese live in my town. My favorite things are watching Japanese dramas through the PC, and reading posts on 2Channel. But I'm so lonely because I have no neighbors to share my interest in Japan with me."

For this reason, we carry the interview from page 62, which is the first clean beat on Magibon in the world.

She had been recorded as the most subscribed channel in YouTube in the world.

We come to America to look for Mystery cute girl who is a great liking for Japan.

「Hello, Magibon! Peace!!」
